6-8 June!

Trebbia, ~~18th - 19th~~ June 1799

The Second Colition had formed against France. The Russian General Suvorov with his Austrian Allies had effectively eliminated Moneau's Army of Italy by the end of April, when General MacDonald marched his Army of Naples up from Rome. Alone and unwilling to simply join Moneau or the remains of his army around Genoa, MacDonald instead fell on the scattered Austrian formations in Modena and Parma. This brought Suvorov marching back from Alessandria to save his supply lines. Across the rivers Tidone and Trebbia, Suvorov and MacDonald committ equal numbers to a savage, two-day pounding match called the Battle on the Trebbia.
